

Jenkins Flat Happenings

[CORRESPONDENCE.]

As our old representative has left us, and taken up his abode in the "Lovely Valley," we will just drop you a line to remind you that "Old Jenkins' Flat" is the only place in our mind's eye this side of the "promised land," and we have been over some of the United States and also a little out side of Uncle Sam's domain, yet, we are just "new-comers" to these parts. We are well pleased with the general appearance of the country, the fertility of the soil, the healthful climate, the picturesque scenery, etc.

We note with pleasure the neighborly and friendly feeling existing between the people of this community, which, we believe is one of the most essential requisites toward the development of a new country.

We are favorably impressed with the attention paid to E. E. Winter and family during the three weeks of anxious watching by the bedside of their two children who were suffering with a severe case of dyptheria and membranous croup.

We are glad to report the recovery of the Winter children, but are sorry to learn that one of Mr. Rice's children has the measles.

Mr. Rhodes' family is having a touch of the la grippe.

If you are after the number of population here, just go upon the Mesa Rodondo, where you will find the posts going down like a snow drift in August.

Our friend, J. W. Jobe, sustained a heavy loss a few days ago. He had a little fire out near the wood pile, but thought he had extinguished it when he left it, but shortly after leaving it the wind fanned a spark to life and soon his entire wood pile was in flames, and a stack yard which contained about $250 or $300 worth of feed was also burned. We think it too bad for one to loose all of a year's hard earnings in a few moments, after having gone through the hardships relative to the settling of a new country.

Nolan Jenkins, Earnest Riley, Miss Delia Jenkins and Miss Dane Olds report a great time during their visit with Miss Hallie Bost, at Endec.

We have certainly enjoyed beautiful weather for the past three months, but to-day (Wednesday) looks like there might be something in store for the "weather-bird."

J. R. Culver, who is stopping with E. E. Winter, has been digging a well on his claim. He reports having struck a good stream of water at a depth of 14 feet.

We are glad to see so many farms being opened up. It begins to look like business. This old valley with all of its crudeness may blossom like the rose yet.

As we are only new-comers, and may want to say something more in the near future, provided this does not find its way to the waste basket, we will bring our remarks to a close.

Yours truly,
